APPEAL FILED BY JOHN WREN

Starts Action Before Civil Service Commission After Dismissal.

John Wren of 208 South Main street, dismissed Sept 5 as a patrolman on the Marion police department, filed an appeal of his dismissal with the city civil service commission this afternoon.

Wren's appeal drawn by the law firm of Mouser, Young Mouser & Wiant, asks that Safety Director Emery Murphy, who ordered Wren's dismissal after Chief William E Marks had temporarily suspended him, file a "specification of facts setting forth the acts and conduct complained of * * *." Wren further asks that after he has had sufficient time to prepare his defence, a final hearing on the appeal be held.

W. N. Harder, chairman of the civil service commission, said this hearing will be held probably in the next two weeks

In his appeal, Wren protests against the manner of his dismissal, which was based on charges of gross neglect of duty He states that the safety director gave him no time or opportunity to make an explanation of the charges against him and gave him no specification of facts to inform him of the acts and conduct on which the charge was based.

Members of the civil service commission are Mr Harder, chairman, Clyde C Caldwell, G. E Waddell and Ralph Carhart, clerk.

Building About Gone, Now Cellar Dirt Disappears

Looting of the former Studebaker-Wulff Rubber Co plant on Lincoln avenue has reached the final stages it was indicated today, with the arrest of an East Side resident late yesterday afternoon for removing dirt from the building's cellar

Prosecution of the man was withheld when he replaced the dirt, which, he told police he had taken for use on his lawn.

Officials remarked that persons who have been stripping the building in recent years have reached the point where the only parts left are the walls and dirt in the cellar.

Attempts to prevent the looting have been unsuccessful since an eastern bank which had charge of the building has refused to protect it or back prosecution against the vandals officials said

Homemade Glider Flown by Youthful Builders

First Trips in Air End in Smashed Undercarriage; Plan Other Attempts.

A glider constructed by two 18-year-old youths, believed to be the first one built in Marion, made its first test hops Monday afternoon on the Wesley Seckel farm two and one-half miles east of Marion on the Patton road

The test flights, three of them, were not so successful, the builders, Albert Cochran of 287 North Prospect street and Charles Seckel of 254 North State street, reported, but they are preparing for other attempts.

On the third hop, while about six feet off the ground, the glider was driven to the ground by a gust of wind and the undercarriage damaged. The boys are making repairs and expect to made additional test hops next week. They hope to get the glider as high as 100 feet in the air and stay aloft for half an hour.

The boys built the glider in their spare time after school and during vacation time in the last two years. It was exhibited in the Y. M. C. A. hobby show this spring and won first prize It is built of spruce, white pine and cypress, with a fabric covering. The wingspread is 32 feet with a 15-foot fuselage and the glider weighs 175 pounds. It seats one person.

The glider was towed by an automobile during the test hops but the rough condition of the field is said to have kept the car from getting enough speed to send the glider to any appreciable distance. This part of the state is lacking, however, in favorable gliding conditions, the young aeronauts report. Hills and the accompanying wind currents are necessary to successful flights, they said.

Both boys were graduated last year from the St. Mary High school.

Pick County for Prairie Chicken Test

Birds Released Here in Effort To Propagate New Game.

As the first step in an effort of the state conservation department to add prairie chickens to the list of Ohio game birds, 10 chickens were released in Marion county on the Hoch game refuge three and one-half miles west of Marion last week it was announced today by O H Neimeyer of Prospect, state game protector

The birds, the first to be released in Ohio by the conservation department, were released here so the conservation officials could make periodic observations on their progress Mr Niemeyer said. If they thrive, he said, the department expects to stock other sections of the state with them.

Marion county received the first group of birds released because prairie chickens were last seen in Ohio in Marion county 60 years ago Mr Niemeyer said He added that he made a special effort to have the birds brought here for observation in view of the fact this county was their last Ohio habitat.

Two of the birds released here are the only two prairie chickens ever known to be reared in captivity to the knowledge of conservation officials Mr Niemeyer said The other eight he said, were brought from Wisconsin where they had been trapped.

The birds first were taken to the recently opened conservation experiment farm near Urbana and an effort was made there to propagate them Mr Niemeyer said. They apparently made no progress in captivity so it was decided to release them at some spot in the state conducive to their propagation, he said

Prairie chickens are about half the size of the ring neck pheasant, Mr Niemeyer said They are regarded as one of the best game birds by wing shooters, especially those using dogs he said

Other game released in this county last week included 315 pheasants and five raccoon, Mr. Niemeyer said.

OPEN CHAMP BEATEN AS TOURNEY STARTS

By The Associated Press

KENWOOD COUNTRY CLUB, CINCINNATI O, Sept 13—Johnny Goodman of Omaha the national open titleholder and outstanding favorite, was eliminated today by H. Chandler Egan of Del Monte, Calif., amateur champion nearly 30 years ago, in the first round of the United States amateur golf tournament.

Egan won by two up in an 18-hole match.

Egan, 49 years old and holder of the crown back in 1904 and 1905, while a student at Harvard university blasted Goodman out of the tournament with a sensational sub-par finish. The veteran negotiated the last nine holes in 33, two under par and carded a 70, one under perfect figures for the complete round. Goodman shot fine golf most of the way, with a 72, but cracked on the seventeenth and lost the eighteenth to Egan's birdie 3 as the former titleholder contributed a dazzling climax to the upset.

Marion Nimrods Oil Guns As Squirrel Season Nears

Friday Will Mark Opening of Hunting in Ohio; License Sales Reported High.

The early morning hours this Friday will find large numbers of eager Marion county nimrods in the field celebrating the opening of the squirrel hunting season according to advance indications from sales of licenses in a survey today.

From Friday until Oct 1, when the season closes, the roar of shotguns and the sight of hunting coats will again be familiar countryside occurrences.

After Oct. 1, open season will be observed for hunters of certain species of ducks, geese, brandt, coot and jacksnipe, the Associated Press reported today. Pheasant and rabbit season will not open until Nov. 15.

Expect Many Out

Interest evidenced by license buyers has convinced observers that this hunting season will see as large a number of nimrods in the field as in the last two or three years, although the number is not expected to equal the peak marks of several years ago.

Many purchasers of licenses had to wait for several days because hardware dealers could not get supplies of licenses in time. This was explained by one dealer, who said that this is the first year that hardware stores have obtained their supplies of licenses direct from the state, instead of through the county clerk's office. Making the change caused delay and confusion, he said. Most stores have had license supplies only a few days, yet are reporting favorable sales to date.

Sale of 251 licenses, most of them in the last few days, was reported today by E. F. Waples, township

MEASURE TO PROVIDE AID IS INTRODUCED

Both Houses Given Proposal; Would Provide Four Million for 2 Years.

SHUNT GENERAL MEASURE

One Per Cent Sales Tax To Run Six Months Is Offered.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O Sept 13 The fight over the subject of state aid for parochial schools broke out in both houses of the general assembly today with the introduction of a bill which would appropriate $4,000,000 for the next two years

The measure was introduced in the house by Representative William N Goodwin, Democrat of Butler county a short time before Senator John F Smolka, Democrat of Cuyahoga county rose to champion the same bill in the senate

It quickly was referred to the joint taxation committee by the lower chamber and Sen D J Gunsett Democrat of Van Wert county, chairman of the committee declared from the floor of the senate that he would vote to recommend it for passage

Senator Gunsett said it would be considered by the committee tonight.

Struggling to keep parochial and public school appropriations proposals under separate heads, Gunsett earlier in the day had successfully opposed a proposed amendment to the general school appropriations bills which would have provided for a parochial school grant,

General Bill Shunted

Offered by Senator Smolka, the amendment called for the allocation of $15 for each parochial school pupil in Ohio or both this school year and the term of 1934 35

The general school bill, shunted aside tentatively at Gunsett's suggestion, as the senate began consideration of the separate parochial school measure, which calls for state aid on a basis of $39 for each elementary pupil and $66 for each high school student.

The general measure also carried provision for an appropriation from the general revenue fund of $3,000,000 for state aid districts for the remainder of this year, but Gunsett told the senate it would not be needed should the six-months one per cent sales tax recommended by the joint committee be enacted

First to raise his voice against parochial school appropriations, Senator Walter Ruff, Republican of Stark county, announced he would vote against such grants in any form

"It is not religious prejudice," he added, "that impels me to take this stand Such appropriation would be unconstitutional"

In his home city of Canton, Ruff said the public schools easily could absorb the 2,500 parochial school students

The parochial school measure, introduced by Representative Goodwin, was accompanied by a memorandum explaining its provisions. The chief purpose of aid to the parochials, the memorandum said was to "provide temporary relief for the public school system by temporary appropriation to continue the operation of free tuition schools and operating under public boards of education in Ohio."

Reasons to declare an emergency as set forth, were:

"1 For the purpose of relieving the public schools system of the additional burden which would be placed upon it should these schools (parochials) be compelled to close.

"2 To avoid confusion and disturbance of the public school system

"3 To avoid the cost of providing additional public school facilities"

It was further explained that "these free-tuition schools offer to school children in their immediate vicinity without regard to race, color or religious believes of such children, education in subjects commonly included in elementary or high school courses without charge for tuition. Such schools must have been in operation on a five-day week schedule during Feb. 1933."

The measure, which would limit the use of the funds to payment of teachers' salaries and current expenses of operation, would appropriate the sum of $1,500,000 from the general revenue funds for the remainder of 1933, and $2,500,000 for 1934. It would be apportioned on the basis of the ratio of school children in any such given school to the total number of children in such schools in the state. Records of the state department of education would be used as the basis of calculation.

The memorandum added "the free tuition schools provide for more than 171,000 elementary and high school pupils throughout the state. The amount appropriated is

AMERICA ★ FEELS ★ BETTER ★

SOMETHING wonderful has happened. We are coming out of the dark. We looked so long at the clouds, we forgot the blue sky beyond. Now we see it again. And it looks good ... America feels better!

Smiles are back. Watch the crowds. They're looking up; dressing up. Faces are brighter; heads higher ... America looks better!

There's bright new paint and the sound of hammers. Cash-registers are playing an old sweet song, "Happy Days Are Here Again." Somebody's doing better. Payrolls are growing bigger. We're going somewhere—and getting there ... America is doing better!

Something more than Beer is back.... It's time to be friendly and gracious, to enjoy life openly, freely, with Budweiser, King of Bottled Beer. For it is to the happy, human side of things that Budweiser makes its perfect contribution. It's a great drink for these great days of a great people.

He's Only a Goat but Marion Vets Have Tender Feeling for Old Pete

the Lima men had decided to award a permanent prize, far more precious—and led out the goat, so ancient that those who have seen him since his arrival in Marion have marveled at his presence on this planet. "Pete" looks as if he had gone through one of the voitures famous "wrecks."

Overcome—not with joy, Commandante MacDonald led the goat down the aisle and outside and tied him to a pillar. When the band came home there was no room for the goat, but within a short time arrangements had been made to transfer the prize from Lima to Marion. What to do with a billy goat! Even the 40 et 8 boys were up a stump, until they found that they would be permitted to let him roam in the rear of the Sinclair Refining Co. on Silver street.

It was the Sinclair men who named the goat. And one of the men paid tribute to "Pete" yesterday with these golden words: "For a goat, he seems quite reasonable." What higher praise could a goat cherish?

The 40 et 8 members have had to feed "Pete" with a great deal of consideration. No tin cans for "Pete," nothing but the softest of foods for his toothless gums. Clyde Caldwell several times visited "Pete" with offerings of apple peelings and canteloupe rinds, and the men at the Sinclair office saw that he never went hungry.

At Home for Aged

When the voiture met Monday night it was decided that something must be done about "Pete" before the coming of winter. Arthur S. Brooks appointed "goatee" to look after "Pete," arranged with Dr. H. A. Hoops, LaRue veterinarian, to board and room and provide medical attention for the goat. Yesterday the doctor was to come and take "Pete" and all the responsibilities for his welfare.

Something went wrong, though, for "Pete" was still [illegible] at [illegible] the Silver street [illegible] this morning.

The tube band that won "Pete" [illegible] a permanent [illegible] is managed by Dr. F. L. [illegible] and directed by Prof. [illegible], who also [illegible] one of the saxophone players. The others are Ray Conklin, drums; Pen Snyder, bass; Ed [illegible], clarinet; W. H. Marks, trumpet; George Porterfield, trombone; Charles [illegible], alto horn; Chris Turett, flute and piccolo; Fred Morris, saxophone; Parke Kennedy, snare drum; Claude Bronson, bass drum.

The band is quite versatile. From the "On Directors" march it swings easily into [illegible] "Anchors Aweigh," stirring war songs, or trumpety German band numbers. The band was organized this summer and is used at the "wrecks."

If the band is successful in getting a way to the national convention in Chicago in a few weeks, it may come home with another prize. But every member to a man hopes the prize isn't another "Pete."

The Stars Say

For Thursday, Sept. 14

A FAIRLY INTERESTING and satisfactory state of affairs may be forecast for this day, according to the lunar and mundane figures. Those in employment may enjoy some pleasant recognition or minor advancement and all pertaining to writing, publishing, promotion or new business contracts should thrive. But be on guard against petty deception, fraud or crafty complications and make changes with wise decision.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a fairly satisfactory and interesting year, with some slight advancement in employment or a pleasant recognition of favor from those in authority. Writings, publications and new contracts may flourish and good news may enliven affairs. But make changes carefully and be alert to petty treacheries, fraud or misrepresentation.

A child born on this day may be clever, versatile and ambitious, winning commendation from employers and those in high places. It should have a fairly successful life.

Notable nativity: Francis Scott Key, author "Star Spangled Banner."

It's the Sugar

(Will Rogers Special)

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Sept. 13.—Did you see in the paper where Cuba is liable to have another change of government? Well, the other day I told you or was you listening? that revolutions run in packs like hounds, or bananas. One revolution is just like one cocktail. "Mother, look at these stockings! Why do I get so many runs?"

"Well, dear, perhaps you've been rubbing away their elasticity with cake soap . . .

"NOW, Mrs. Brown was telling me about Lux—it saves the elasticity of stockings—that's the 'give' that makes them stretch without breaking. Cake-soap rubbing and soaps containing harmful alkali weaken that elasticity and then, of course, the lifeless threads tend to break at the least strain. That's why you get runs. I'd suggest you try Lux, dear . . . it takes only 2 minutes, and your stockings will wear longer!"

The HIDDEN DOOR

BY FRANK L. PACKARD

[illegible]right 1933, Frank L. Packard.

[illegible] low. O'Mara [illegible] was [illegible] and O'Mara [illegible] mouth, appeared now [illegible] For a moment [illegible] glancing up and [illegible] reaching back [illegible] he switched off the [illegible]

[illegible] was nothing to be seen in [illegible] save the glow of a cigaret and a blotched shape to which [illegible] seemed to be attached. Colin's [illegible] strained through the darkness [illegible] the glowing [illegible] and the blotched shape [illegible] across the [illegible] the wall, as [illegible] been no wall [illegible] disintegrated.

For a moment Colin lay there [illegible] his mind in a daze—[illegible] began to clear. There was [illegible] no possibility [illegible] mistake. Buck O'Mara at the [illegible] was somewhere on the other side of the wall. A trick [illegible] that was obvious. One of the [illegible] of the old Wine Press, unquestionably left there in[illegible]

Well, he had been right about [illegible] thing that Buck O'Mara would communicate with the Mask [illegible] That was unquestionably a certainty now. That was where Buck O'Mara had just gone—either to the Mask in person, or to make contact with him in some established way.

The house next door! No—wait a minute. Colin's brain was probing, sifting swiftly now. There was Solly the cobbler. Benny Malone had spoken of a secret entrance from what used to be the grotto. He considered this for an instant, then shook his head decisively.

It could not be that, for Benny Malone had said that the passage to and from Solly the cobbler's was used by all the members of the mobs, whereas no one was permitted up here in the big shots' terrain except the big shots themselves. There remained then only the house next door.

A grim smile twisted the corners of Colin's mouth as he began to retreat downstairs. To search for the trick opening of a trick door here in the darkness was impracticable. He knew there was a hidden door here, and approximately where it was—that was enough for the moment.

He could quite understand now why Buck O'Mara had not wanted Clarkie Lunn in that other room tonight! Heinie Schwarm's expected arrival might only have been used as a pretext.

He regained the horsehair sofa and lay there staring into the dark. The house next door. That brought old Keppelstein into the forefront of the picture. Old Keppelstein was now proved to be far from just the innocent bystander that Benny had believed him to be.

The memory of Colonel Hargreaves flashed through Colin's mind. Who was this old Keppelstein? A masquerader? The Mask himself? Perhaps. Or was he just a rung higher up the ladder than the Barneys here—the keeper of the inner gate?

Out of the darkness there came no answer. Colin expected none. The point was he was now in possession of the fact that the house next door held the secret of the Mask's existence identity, and activities. How solve that secret? How put the finger indisputably on the Mask? Suppose even, for instance, that old Keppelstein was the Mask—how prove it?

It was not so easy, in spite of all he now knew! But there was a way, there must be a way—if he could only hit upon it. This was the last chapter, wasn't it? The climax. He couldn't afford to be stuck. How would he—

He swore softly under his breath, then hunched his shoulders. Well, how would he write it?

He gave his mind free rein. It stumbled at first, there were too many pitfalls; then a plan—or was it a plot?—took seed, began to germinate—flowered.

And he was still rehearsing its details an hour later when, in spite of the discomfort of his couch, nature at last had her way and he dropped off to sleep.

COLIN looked at his watch as he made his way toward the public telephone booths in the Grand Central station—and frowned slightly. It was 10 o'clock, the morning already half gone. Not altogether his fault though, of course. To his own amazement he had slept soundly on that accursed horsehair sofa. It had been long after 8 o'clock when he had awakened to find Buck O'Mara standing over him.

Buck O'Mara had told him he wouldn't be wanted on another job for the next few days—which was very good of Buck O'Mara!

After that he had come uptown to his room. There he had divested himself of his bloodstained shirt, replaced the bandage on his arm with absorbent cotton and adhesive tape which he had purchased on the way up; then, changing his clothes, he had gone out to get something to eat.

Mrs. Barney had not mentioned breakfast—of which he was sorely in need. Well, perhaps an hour more or less wouldn't make much difference!

Reaching his objective, he entered a booth and called a well-remembered number. A moment later a concise, official, but unmistakable voice came over the wire.

"Sergeant Mulvey speaking."

"Oh, hello Tim," said Colin. "It's good to hear that old growl of yours again."

There was a sudden gasp—and with the gasp officialism fled.

"Well for cripes' sake!" boomed Sergeant Mulvey jovially, "if it ain't—"

"Better not!" warned Colin. "Listen, Tim, I've got to see you—and see you quick. And it's got to be somewhere where there's no chance of a hitch-up between you and me being spotted."

"What's up?" Detective Sergeant Mulvey's voice had sobered.

"A lot!" said Colin tersely.

"You're not kidding, are you?"

"I wish I were," exclaimed Colin fervently. "Name the place. It's got to be water-tight."

Given in Marriage

BY ADELE GARRISON

Despite her father's assurances that Lee Chow could not harm Baby Faith, Madge dashes frantically to the nursery.

FOR A FEW seconds after my father had told me that I never would have to see Lee Chow alone again, there was a silence in the little study. I was fairly giddy with relief at his promise but I also was filled with a cold little fear, which I could not help voicing when the seconds went by without further speech from him.

"But, father," I said tremulously, "is there not danger of his trying to injure the children, or Dicky, or you, when he realizes that I will not see him? Why, he might even have gone upstairs now."

I made a frantic rush for the door, but my father caught my arm and stopped me.

"In the first place, Lee Chow is not upstairs," he said. "Through the window I saw him go out and get into the car which brought him here. The Chinese chauffeur, who has sat there immovable for hours, sent the car along toward The Larches at a good place. You could not have heard it, for the car is an expensive, noiseless wonder, but if your attention had not been so taken up with me, you could not have helped seeing the departure of our inscrutable friend."

"You're sure he is gone?"

My father smiled patiently.

Baby Faith Is Safe

"Absolutely sure; but if you're not, there's one sure cure for fear. We'll go upstairs to the nursery and make certain that no dangerous plotter from either the Orient or the Occident is lurking in that vicinity. Come along!"

The encouragement in his tone was infectious, and I found my terror lessening as, with my father's hand tightly clasping mine, I went into the hall and up the stairs to the nursery.

"I don't believe Katherine has gone to bed yet," I said, "and even if she has, I know she won't mind being wakened this once."

Indeed, Katherine was awake, and when she saw my face she put out her hand and grasped mine.

"What is it?" she asked, and my father spoke quickly for me.

"Something has upset Margaret—we can't explain just now—and she wants to be sure that the baby is all right."

She smiled at me comprehendingly, and threw open the door.

"Come in and see," she said.

In her sitting room two temporary cots had been set up because of the crowd from the wedding being entertained in the house.

Locked Doors.

"These are waiting for Junior and Roderick when they come back from the drive," she said. Then she went on into the nursery, where, when we tiptoed with infinite caution to the crib, we saw our baby [illegible] like a curled rose leaf," [illegible] and soundly asleep.

"You see?" she said. And I put out my hand and gripped hers thankfully, even as my glance strayed to the windows.

"Screens all [illegible] bars tightly fastened," she said, and I nodded.

"Do you mind [illegible] this door into the corridor [illegible] until the boys come back and then afterward?" I asked.

Of course [illegible] characteristically [illegible] neither surprise at my request nor curiosity concerning [illegible] "I'm not going to bed [illegible] Junior and Roderick come [illegible] I have a letter that I [illegible] to answer—I've been putting [illegible] as long as it is, and tonight I'm going to get at it."

There was a [illegible] flush on her cheeks as she [illegible] and an odd fluttering of her eyelids, tiny signs both but [illegible] significant to me.

Katherine is [illegible] flattered that I was sure [illegible] she had received was [illegible] important one and I [illegible] the answer [illegible] to its author [illegible] as if I could [illegible] the letter, which [illegible] lay in her desk, I could [illegible] name. Hal Meredith.

Daily Guide to Health

BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND.

Head Noises Traced to the Ear.

MANY PERSONS are susceptible to a distressing symptom known as "head noises." It is a vague and annoying complaint, frequently encountered in persons of middle age. It is not a disease but it is a sign of some disturbance within the body. It is usually a warning of some disorder of the middle ear and may be a forerunner of chronic ear disturbance.

Sufferers from this affliction describe the head noises differently. One group says it is a "pulsating noise," the second group describes it as a continuous noise, and the third group is insistent that the noises resemble music or the ringing of bells.

In olden times a sufferer from head noises was believed to be the victim of evil spirits located within his skull. Unless these spirits were driven out of the victim's head untold misery and suffering would result. This gave rise to the practice of boring holes in the skull.

The bone cutters, or traveling barbers, as they were sometimes called, traveled from country to country. They performed these minor operations with uncanny skill but with little relief to the sufferer. Many skulls dating back to the day of bone-cutters bearing marks and borings of these crude surgeons, are proof that the ancients suffered from the malady which still afflicts mankind.

Occasionally head noises may be cured by the simple removal of impacted wax or polyps found in the canal of the ear. In other instances a foreign body may have become located in the auditory canal and produced this unwelcome discomfort.

Often a constitutional disturbance such as anemia or some other blood disorder may be the cause of head noises. It is not uncommon to find this affliction in persons suffering from arterio sclerosis, or hardening of the blood vessels.

The cause can be determined only by a careful physical examination. If you are a sufferer from head noises consult with your doctor. This symptom is often overlooked so long as the discomfort is mild and not too disturbing. Unfortunately the sufferer seeks medical advice when the noises have become persistent and sometimes so annoying as to interfere with the general health. It is then difficult to remove the trouble.

May I warn you against carelessness and neglect of any ear complaint. I cannot overemphasize the importance of early and prompt attention. Many serious disturbances of the ear could be prevented by immediate medical care.

Why Plastic Surgeons Get Rich

The most interesting study of mankind is woman's quaint reasoning. He is never weary of figuring out why-a-woman-does-things.

For instance, men have always attributed woman's love of dress and her ceaseless efforts to beautify herself to vanity. Now Mr. Gelett Burgess advances the theory that women run around to beauty parlors and patronize plastic surgeons because they want to be in style. They are simply seeking "this season's style in form and facial furnishings."

As a matter of fact, it is neither vanity nor love of style, which gives the average woman the courage to go on a starvation diet and have her nose chiseled or her double chin removed. It's her Inferiority Complex! Her lack of vanity, self-confidence and self-esteem.

A woman will struggle, suffer and deny herself all her life to improve her appearance. She always has the uncomfortable, self-conscious feeling that her cheeks might be pinker, her nose might be shorter or her hair might be wavier and glossier. But a man doesn't bother with such self-improvements; because he suspects that he's attractive enough just as the Lord turned him out.

A woman knows when her nose is too prominent or is out of drawing, and has it revamped nearer to her heart's desire and more attractive to the masculine eye. But if a man is born with a prominent nose he calls it "characterful" or "artistocratic"—and lets it go at that.

Some of the greatest actors who ever graced the stage have been men with positively plain faces. No woman with the same sort of face would have dreamed of facing the footlights, even if she knew that she had all the genuine of Ellen Terry and Bernhardt combined. She would have had her face completely remodeled before daring to go to see a theatrical agent.

When a woman sits for a photograph she implores the photographer to "take out all lines," retouch it a lot and "make it beautiful." But a man wants his photograph to resemble him. All he asks of a portrait is that it will look as attractive as the original.

Of course women do waste a lot of time and energy pursuing the changing styles—chiefly in the hope that every new style will make them look more alluring or more beautiful. Or in the fear that they may not come up to the sartorial standards. But that is not a sign of vanity.

When women reach the stage where they cease to try to improve their looks, throw away their vanity cases and wear the same style clothes for five or ten years in succession, then we may call them vain. If woman had just a soupcon of man's nonchalance and perfect self-confidence, she'd have a far easier time of it in this world. But that will never come to pass, until woman recovers from her inferiority complex and decided that she's good enough looking, as is.—Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

MEMBER NRA U.S. CHEVROLET

"Proud and glad to do our part"

WITH President Roosevelt's acceptance of the NRA Automobile Code, Chevrolet, the world's largest builder of motor cars, officially begins operations in accordance with the administration's recovery program.

Although the official code was signed only a few days ago, it will be of interest to Chevrolet's many friends to learn that the Chevrolet Motor Company started to carry out the spirit of today's recovery program over three years ago!

At that time, we put into operation a "share-the-work" plan, whereby our workmen cooperated in spreading the work to give more men jobs. By means of this plan, as well as by regulating hours of work per week to meet retail demand, and by building up parts stocks in lean seasons, it was possible to carry 33,000 men on our payroll through the depression. For eleven months of each year since 1929, we have kept our employment within 10 per cent of this average. We are justly proud of that record. We are also proud to say that Chevrolet workmen did not, at any time during the depression, become a burden on public welfare departments.

On August 1st of this year, Chevrolet announced a blanket wage increase as well as the adoption of a 7½-hour, 5-day week and the employment of 12,000 additional men. This wage increase was the second in the last 4 months, Chevrolet having been among the first to put a blanket wage increase into effect.

We feel that the President's recovery program deserves the whole-hearted support of every citizen and manufacturer in America. It is a bold, swift, courageous plan to start the ball rolling toward economic recovery. Its sincerity is unquestioned. Its objectives are admirable. And the direct, forceful steps the President and his associates are taking to make it a success, should stir the pride and admiration of every American.

We are proud and glad to do our part. And we are deeply grateful to the American people for the patronage that has enabled us to anticipate the present recovery program and to play our part today. After all, the immense number of men employed by Chevrolet is a direct result of the continued preference America has shown for Chevrolet.

In A Squeeze.

[illegible] in New York [illegible] what has [illegible] the Tammany [illegible] in a squeeze.

Its management of the city's affairs is responsible for a grave financial crisis which fails to disappear under the poultice of [illegible]. Unless something is done and done soon there is going to be a collapse which might precipitate hungry Tammanyites out into the hard world where people work for a living.

On the other hand, if the obvious "something" is done taxpayers will make such a howl that when votes are counted next time even Tammany-trained vote-counters won't be able to make their men win. The pack is gathering for the kill. Circumstances have done what reformers couldn't do. The Tammany tiger is reeling and panting with exhaustion.

Outsiders reading the tax program proposed last week had to admit they had seen a new high in ways and means of taking money from that prime dodo, the taxpayer. Boys on the inside were ready to rush that program through at one sitting, furthermore. All that prevented them was the unexpected appearance of a large number of angry citizens who seemed prepared to speak their pieces or die trying.

In fact, the idea seems to have permeated the thick heads of taxpayers under Tammany rule that it might be possible for New York to pare down expenditures as well as boost taxes. Such a thing is almost unheard of, to be sure, but according to reports it has been done some places with good success. Poor old Tammany! If it does tax, it loses. If it doesn't tax, it loses. And if it were to do anything so extreme as to starve the kitty it would be committing suicide.

Rules for Tricksters.

One of the troubles with this country, it seems, is that too many people are popping rabbits out of silk hats and pulling bowls of gold fish out of the folds of oriental robes. There is a nation-wide movement to declare a six months moratorium on the activities of non-professional magicians.

It has come to light that there is a serious overproduction in legerdemain and professional magicians, with the backing of other groups connected with the stage, are seeking to do something about it.

The aid of the NRA is invoked, at least in spirit, to meet the situation. The country is full of nimble-fingered men who do some neat tricks but are not dependent on them for a living. They perform on many occasions, sometimes for a fee just as often without payment of any kind and the professional magicians ask relief from this kind of competition.

Every amateur trickster is asked to take a pledge that he will not perform in public for a period of six months, provided that he has another means of earning a living. If he wants to make an ace of spades jump out of the deck for the amusement of his own friends there will be no objection but he is asked not to put on an entertainment.

A number of men who depend for their living on their skill as manipulators are out of jobs and the movement asks that they be relieved during the six months period from amateur competition.

This part of Ohio has many men who are clever at magic tricks and they are a fraternal group. No "trade" is more free at passing on secrets to rivals and fellow workers than the magicians and this spirit, no doubt, will bring a willing response to the suggestion. This being done, anyone who wants to see whether the hand is quicker than the eye must buy a ticket and thereby help make a job for a professional.

Mission Not Completed.

Alfonso Casas, young Cuban who is said to look like Rudolph Valentino, gave New York a romantic thrill last week-end which was not entirely dissipated by the fact that he went back home rather ignominiously without accomplishing his purpose of assassinating a certain Machado agent who had been marked for death.

Most assassins are unromantic figures. It was a bespectacled underfed student who fired the shot in Sarajevo which touched off the World war and he was denied even [illegible] a foreign state [illegible] years of [illegible] at Pres- [illegible]

[illegible]

The experience of the [illegible] Casas was a complete failure [illegible] purpose [illegible] it was apparently a success [illegible] passengers on the ship by which [illegible]

It is apparent that when [illegible] present frame of mind the young senor can't be admitted to this country. We have enough [illegible] of our own without permitting others to come here with the express purpose of doing murder. Vaudeville managers doubtless are bewailing the fact. A handsome young man who can shake off a mean rhumba while he plots a political murder would be big box office.

"Nephews" Must Help.

Uncle Sam is not going to spoil any of his nephews by indulgence in the distribution of relief. The keynote of official spokesmen at the national conference in Washington last week emphasized the fact that communities cannot cast their burden on Washington.

President Roosevelt, Relief Administrator Hopkins and other speakers brought the word that the federal government will continue to stand between the people of America and suffering which results from unemployment but they also said with emphasis that no community will be permitted to escape from its own responsibility.

The government does not intend to finance relief forever. This was one of the points made clear by the official spokesmen. It does not intend, therefore, to allow the local communities to get out of training or to slacken its organization.

Public participation in relief work of the country is regarded in Washington as entirely of an emergency nature and there is a genuine feeling that the emergency may not be of long duration. When it passes each community will be required to assume again full responsibility for its local needs.

Community funds this year must finance many activities in which the government takes no part. They must care for children, for the aged, for certain forms of dependency, for most of the health work of their local organizations, for all the activities which are known as character building. One of the obstacles they face is the belief which exists in the minds of some persons that the government is bearing the whole load.

This fallacy was exploded loudly and definitely at the welfare conference in Washington last week. Representatives of the country's community chests were sent home with the message, clearly expressed, that no bit of local responsibility has been removed by the government's participation in welfare work.

None of the official spokesmen shook the big club at local relief organizations. President Roosevelt said that states must shoulder their end of the relief load before Washington will lend a hand but the private agencies were merely told that the government will only go part of the way in caring for emergency distress and that local communities face their old responsibility of caring for the rest of the need. In the main, federal agencies will take over approximately that share of the work which represents emergency conditions but the ordinary needs of the aged, the sick, the children and those who need special care year after year must remain the responsibility of their own communities.

Most of the cities will participate this fall in a nationwide mobilization for human needs. The Washington conference emphatically expressed the declaration that the needs of each community will be met only as its own campaign is successful.

Highlights of Ohio History

SPELLED "VAN WART"

Though the county of Van Wert was named after the Revolutionary hero, Isaac Van Wart, one of the three captors of Major Andre, as he was on his way from the treasonable negotiations with Benedict Arnold for the surrender of the American post which Arnold commanded, the name of the country is not spelled as that hero spelled his. As given above, he spelled his name with an A instead of an E in the last syllable. A mistake on the part of some one who prepared the act of the legislature providing for the organization of the county gave the county the erroneous but accepted spelling that appears on the state maps.

Van Wart was of course of Dutch descent. Before entering the military service of the colonies, he had been a farmer in West Chester county, New York. He died in 1828 at the age of 68. As the Ohio county was given his name was organized in 1820, he lived 20 years thereafter and doubtless knew of the honor that was thus bestowed upon him. The two other captors of Andre were similarly honored, Ohio counties being named for them.

Behind The News In Washington And Wall Street

BY GEORGE DURNO

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 — Significant maneuvers are going on back-stage in organized labor circles these days.

Many old-timers are wondering whether John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, isn't getting ready to contest the presidency of the American Federation of Labor with William Green next month.

The executive council of the A. F. of L. is assembled here now. The full meeting at which officers are elected starts Oct. 2.

It is reported Lewis is back of a move to have the executive council expanded from 11 to 25, taking in representatives of such strong industrial unions as his own. Not being a member of the council Lewis must try the trick from outside.

The executive council as now constituted is a rather weak and non-representative body. It was made so deliberately back in the days of Sam Gompers when Sam wanted to be the one big boss. That set-up has never been changed.

Whether Lewis drive to strengthen it means his candidacy for presidency of the A. F. of L. is problematical. The star of the mine workers' leader is in the ascendancy and he can give Green a good scrap if he so chooses.

Then again he may have decided to be a very big frog in his own puddle in the light of his recent successes with the mine operators.

Methods

"Baptist Bill" Green as the men call him, lacks the forceful personality of Lewis. He has been criticized in some quarters of late for not being the big battler in his code rows at NRA. But he has produced enough results to win him a fair amount of commendation from the ranks of labor.

At next month's meeting there unquestionably will be demands for a stiffer fight for a general 30-hour week. Also demands will be made that "chiseling" industrialists under the Blue Eagle be brought to book.

Grudges

Codes are making stranger bedfellows than politics ever did.

It has been stirring to see the northern bituminous coal operators (representing the Mellon control) and the southern non-union group stand shoulder to shoulder and fight to the bitter end against a code. They represent 70 per cent of the industry but a feud exists between them that dates back to wartimes.

During the World war the Smokeless-Appalacian group with their non-union labor made big inroads on the markets erstwhile supplied by the union fields of Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Then, later, came the British coal strike and further raids were made.

A common cause forced them to bury the hatchet while dealing with the government this time but such deep-seated grudges are sure to crop up as soon as the situation with NRA clears.

In their dealings with General Johnson and his aides the two groups by tacit agreement left out of their briefs all statistics that would have bared the extent of the market war.

Every time a decision for the coal industry had to be made spokesman for the two groups virtually had to clasp hands and vote in unison so wary was each of the other.

Walker

Reports are getting around in political and railroad circles that Paul Walker, chairman of the Oklahoma public service commission is going to be appointed to the interstate commerce commission.

He would succeed Ezra Brainerd, Jr., whose term expires Dec. 31.

The situation is such that the Southwest must get the post. Should Walker lose out the job probably will go to a Texas man.

K. K. K.?

Can it be possible the Blue Eagle is going to give the nation a revival of such organizations as the Ku Klux Klan?

Down in Dallas, Texas, the other day a former police commissioner organized Post No. 1 of "The United American Actives" an organization "to support the U. S. government and its NRA program and to fight growing red menace by lawful—not unlawful—means."

Its sponsors say Jews and Catholics are welcome. Dallas Jews say it is a secret order whose meetings they can not crash.

Cabbage

During the hysteria of the World war an organization called the American Protective League was formed.

Full of patriotic fervor, members demanded of strangers that they produce draft cards, suspected all persons speaking with an accent of being spies and called sauerkraut "liberty cabbage."

Men back of the NRA movement say they hope no such organization is fostered to fight the Blue Eagle's battles.

Music

Frank J. Hogan, the lawyer who successfully defended Californian Edward L. Doheny in the oil scandal days for a reputed fee of $1,000,000, is one of Washington's cleverest toastmasters.

The other night Hogan was presiding at a dinner. It came time to introduce George O'Connor, one of the town's best known minstrels and a close friend of long standing.

"I understand you were toastmaster at a Georgetown university dinner recently, George," said Hogan, thinking to kid O'Connor. "That gives me the right to sing a song."

"No," shot back George, "you only know one song—'California, Here I Come.'"

Notes

Four hundred friends of Henry Morgenthau, jr., farm credit administrator, gave up $2.50 a plate at the recent dinner tendered him in California . . . Senator McAdoo was called upon among other speakers . . . "I thank you for this fine tribute to me," said McAdoo . . . Editors of the U. S. Coast Guard magazine dug up an F. D. R. letter of Oct. 1932, extolling the men of the navy, marine corps and coast guard . . . Alongside of it they printed an open letter to the President suggesting that now was the time to prove appreciation by restoring pay cuts to service men so they can meet increased prices under the Blue Eagle . . . The return of President Roosevelt from his Hyde park home was a signal for things to start humming again . . . While he is out of town things slump amazingly.

By JAMES McMULLIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 13—The tug-of-war between the banks and the government on credit policy is still a draw.

Returning pilgrims from the A B A convention in Chicago say that neither the President's honey, Eugene Black's licorice, nor Jesse Jones' vinegar tasted right to the ruffled palates of the bankers. So far as the majority of New York financial men are concerned the barometer is still set at "no change."

But here and there under the surface you find the feeling that it may not be so sensible to buck the government's wishes. After all nobody has yet figured out definitely how far up its sleeve the government can reach to accomplish its purposes. And they have got to be accomplished if the recovery program is to go over.

In essence the government is telling the banks that they must treat American business as a going concern and grant loans on the same type of risk they did in 1926, or else. The exact nature of the "or else" isn't clear yet even to the government but you can bet all the cotton in Dixie that it isn't a bluff.

Preferred Stock

At the moment the government is concentrating heavily on the RFC preferred stock angle. If banks accept that it will deprive them of the argument that they cannot risk their depositors' money in loans to cover expenses or for capital purposes. Eugene Black and others did their darndest at Chicago to induce some well-known bank to act as bellwether by taking on the proposition even if they didn't want the money. All they got for their trouble was the horse-laugh. But it is possible that one or two New York banks may yet try it out.

They don't need the money any more than the other banks but they wouldn't object at all to having the government pat them on the head publicly and tell them what good boys they were. The chief deterring factor is fear that the public may misconstrue their action and think they need help. Which they don't. If a few important banks can be cajoled into taking the plunge it's a safe bet that hundreds over the country would follow suit. They would be morally bound to use the funds thus acquired to make loans. That would start the credit snowball rolling for fair.

Dual

Many bankers complain bitterly in private that the government is pulling dual personality stuff on them. On the one hand they are being heatedly urged to loosen up with credit under threat of government competition or some painful alternative if they don't. On the other Federal bank examiners are much stricter than ever before. In many cases they are even ordering the banks to call loans now outstanding.

Under the circumstances you can hardly blame the banks for inquiring what the hell!

It looks like a curious lack of teamwork within the government and in a way it is. There are several reasons for it. One is the fact that several treasury officials are privately in sympathy with the banking viewpoint of taking no chances and are not too keen about turning credit to anybody who happens to want it. Still more important is the matter of deposit insurance. Treasury authorities intend to make darn sure that no insured banks fold up on the them after they have been certified as worthy of insurance.

Of course if banks were lending money out of funds provided by the RFC for preferred stock the examiners might be more lenient.

Insurance

Deposit insurance was the hot side topic at the A B A convention.

The big bank views are well known. Lots of the little fellows, not members of the Federal Reserve system are worried stiff about it for a different reason. They have heard a lot about how hardboiled these federal examiners are and they just don't know whether they can meet the stiff standards required. They do know perfectly well that it's curtains if they can't qualify.

Then too they wish the examiners would hurry up and get busy. Practically nothing has been done about it yet with the deadline only three and a half months off. They are afraid they'll not get insurance just because they haven't been examined in time. Then what? That's why the heavy pressure for postponing the date for the insurance despite the "Jan. 1, 1934, or earlier" in the law.

Tammany

Tammany suffered the unkindest cut of all when they got word that no federal patronage would be coming their way before election. That was a final jolt to their dreams of administration support. On top of that inside straw votes in "safe" Tammany districts are alarming. Fusion has a much better chance than most people realize.

Some time back Mayor O'Brien called on city department heads to cut expenses to the bone. They are saying he must have meant the shin bone—it's nearest the surface.

Out in the Cold World

NEW YORK, Sept. 13—The [illegible] lady wandering in the snow [illegible] ing "Out in the cold world, [illegible] the street, begging a penny [illegible] each one I meet" was no [illegible] doleful than the head of the [illegible] York Stock Exchange and [illegible] broker associates pursued by bloodhounds of taxation.

New York must find more m[illegible] somewhere. Real estate is a[illegible] so heavily taxed that to own [illegible] liability. Ask the man who [illegible] some.

When it is proposed to put [illegible] taxes on the stock exchange, Whitney, its president, says [illegible] that the big exchange would [illegible] away to another state. There [illegible] limit even to taxation.

New York state taxes the [illegible] change. The national government [illegible] takes half the earnings in [illegible] tax if speculators win on a [illegible] scale; nobody catches their [illegible] tears if they lose. The may[illegible] Newark, N. J., invites the exch[illegible] to come there, and offers a [illegible] for nothing.

Frank Hague, the mayor [illegible] Jersey City just across the H[illegible] son river, offers greater ind[illegible] ments. "Come here," says he. [illegible] you will operate in a city wh[illegible] there are no gangsters or gang[illegible] crimes, where you will not be [illegible] naped, blown up or tormented w[illegible] tear gas."

Mayor Hague's city is the on[illegible] one of any size in the east tha[illegible] gangsters never visit. Criminals avoid it because they are invariably jailed as soon as caught, merely for being vagrants, without asking any other questions.

Crime Still With Us

H. G. Wells' dream of a wor[illegible] with no crimes of violence an[illegible] only a few thefts scattered he[illegible] and there over the earth's surfa[illegible] is still far from realization. [illegible] Silesia yesterday a woman and h[illegible] son were beheaded, by the ax, [illegible] the murder of her husband. T[illegible] dispatch does not say whether [illegible] headsman wore a dress suit, [illegible] whether like the French hea[illegible] man who beheaded Cather[illegible] Howard he first knelt with clasp[illegible] hands before the victim to beg par[illegible] don for what he was about to d[illegible]

"B[illegible] youths went to the gallows witho[illegible] a tremor."

The cold brutality that made t[illegible] hideous crime possible accounts also for the callous deaths.

Detroit is interested in anoth[illegible] "perfect crime," supposed to be [illegible] crime that must forever be a m[illegible] tery. The head of the victim [illegible] this case has not been found. The body was cut up and scatte[illegible] widely, but the hands have be[illegible] found and fingerprints of the de[illegible] hands may convince a suspe[illegible] husband that the "perfect crime" [illegible] rare.

Astronomical Paradox

Sir Arthur Eddington, gr[illegible] British astronomer, bewilders [illegible] with this statement: "The earth [illegible] older than the universe itself." T[illegible] universe, he believes, is two th[illegible] sand million years old, and [illegible] earth is older than that probably.

Only a deep astronomer can un[illegible] derstand how one grain of sand in the universe can be older than the universe.

The late Lord Kelvin said the age limit of the sun and earth could not be above fifty million years. The high school child laughs at that estimate now and Eddington admits that future generations may laugh at his estimate. The universe is constantly expanding, according to Eddington, and if you deny [illegible] you "wreck the relativity the[illegible] and knock the bottom out of spa[illegible]"

It would be too bad to do [illegible] of those things.

Marion County Expected To Have Large Representation in Enrollment.

Special to The Star

ATHENS, O., Sept. 13—Ohio University will open its doors for the 129th year here Monday morning. Students from all corners of Ohio and surrounding states will enroll.

Unless all previous dependable indications fail, the record of enrollment from Marion county will be maintained or surpassed this fall. Marion county was represented by 13 students for the first semester last year and with a total of 16 for the two semesters and the summer session.

Registration for freshmen and new students will be held all day Monday and Tuesday morning, with the upperclassmen registering Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning. Classes will start Wednesday afternoon after the close of the morning registration period.

Basing his opinion upon the current enthusiasm and apparent confidence in the economic stability of state and nation, Registrar F. B. Dilley recently predicted that the enrolment at Ohio University this fall would approximate or exceed that of last year, which was a record breaking one.

"Revival of interest in and applications for training in business and professional channels are being shown in the increased demand for commercial, engineering and journalism courses this fall, Registrar Dilley said.

Junior Division Holds County Fair Spotlight

115 Boys and Girls Have Exhibits; New Department Is Created.

The Junior fair with exhibits entered by 115 Marion county boys and girls in their teens on display is heralded by fair officials as one of the highlights of the eighty-third annual agricultural exposition which began yesterday.

The Junior fair buildings were humming with activity yesterday as the boys and girls, under direction of persons named to help them prepared their exhibits.

Exhibits in this department include stock raised as project work by students in the Smith-Hughes vocational agriculture classes in the county schools, farm shop handiwork, the handiwork of domestic science class pupils in the county schools and juvenile grange displays.

Department Enlarged

In several respects, the Junior fair this year is different from those of preceding years. Last year, Junior fair activity was stimulated by Four-H club organizations throughout the county, but these clubs are not affiliated with the fair this year. A new department has been created, that housing the seventh and eighth grade exhibits. In a large booth the seventh and eighth grade pupils from six schools will enter competitive exhibits. These schools are Agosta, Martel, LaRue, Green Camp, Prospect and Waldo.

The Junior fair department is in charge of W. T. Owens, department superintendent, who is assisted by Levi H. Lukens, Smith-Hughes instructor at Waldo, as secretary, Miss Margaret McCall, home economics teacher at Prospect and E. A. Williams of north of Marion in charge of juvenile granges.

The home economics display includes seven booths containing food displays. Five of these also have clothing displays. Schools represented in the booths are Pleasant, LaRue, Agosta, Prospect and Martel, all having food and clothing exhibits entered. Claridon and Caledonia, joint food exhibit.

Granges Have Booths

Four of the five juvenile granges of the county have booths in the Junior fair building. These include displays of crops, canned goods and handiwork. Exhibits are shown by United, Grand Prairie, Bowling Green and Mt. Olive Juvenile granges.

In the boys' division of the Junior fair, Mr. Lukens listed the number of entries made in each division as follows: corn entries 1[illegible], potatoes, 24; soy beans, 10; wheat, 24; apples, 6; [illegible] truck, 29; one ton litter of pigs, 2; spring gilts (young sows), 2; spring boars, 1[illegible]; market pigs, [illegible]; spring ewes, 11; spring bucks, [illegible]; market lambs, 8; chickens (pens of four), 23; steers and heifers, [illegible]; dairy heifers, three in first year class, two in second year class; [illegible] total of 22[illegible] [illegible]

Farm shop exhibits were entered by four schools, Waldo, LaRue, Green Camp and Martel. There are 10 entries in the farm account books exhibit.

Premiums [illegible] $[illegible] are offered in the [illegible] fair department.

RAINS SEEN AS AID TO LATE OHIO CROPS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept 13 Rains in early September helped Ohio's late crops of corn, potatoes, tobacco and buckwheat and were particularly beneficial to pastures, said the government crop report for the state today

While the report was based on August 1, it was emphasized that the estimates prepared would be affected considerably by rain which fell after Sept. 1

Rains the early part of August in most sections of Ohio were beneficial to late crops and pastures the report said, but parts of the state especially north-central and north-eastern Ohio remained very dry most of the month

Corn prospects on the whole improved in August and the forecast as of Sept. 1 was for 103,229,000 bushels but was still 12 per cent below average

The winter wheat estimate was 33,839,000 bushels and the five year average 27,073,000 bushels Spring wheat was placed at 108,000 bushels—about half an average crop

Unfavorable weather throughout the growing season has resulted in an exceptionally poor oats crop On Sept 1 the condition of 44 per cent was the lowest on record and estimated production of 26,052,000 bushels was 61 per cent less than the five-year average

Barley, like oats, was affected by the unfavorable weather. Chinch bugs also were damaging.

ROOSEVELT BACKING MOVE TO AID BANKS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13—President Roosevelt was said in the highest quarter today to be putting full federal backing behind the banks and to expect them to push out credit in the recovery drive for higher prices and wages.

After two days of intensive canvass of the domestic situation, he feels farm prices are lagging behind in the general upward trend.

The President, in consequence, now is focusing attention on this end of the recovery campaign

He hopes, it was said, to bring about an increase in farm prices double that already attained from the low mark of recent years.

There was no disclosure of the means to be followed, or what place—if any—the exercise of his inflationary powers plays in his plans.

While not satisfied with the increase in employment either, Mr. Roosevelt is gratified that both agricultural prices and employment have picked up.

ASSEMBLY IN BATTLE OVER SCHOOL BILL

approximately $11 per pupil for each school year

"It is estimated that this will save the state of Ohio approximately $17,500,000 in not being required to provide for the pupil now in free tuition schools"

Ohio parochial schools leaders appeared recently before the special joint taxation committee and requested financial aid, stating that it might be necessary to close these schools if state help were not forthcoming

One protest was lodged with the committee against state aid to the parochials. It was entered by representatives of the Lutheran denomination They said that if the Catholic parochials were aided, they likewise would seek state funds for their schools

The Ohio Ku Klux Klan protested against such aid to the parochials, embodying the protest in a circular sent to each law maker

With the parochial schools bill referred to committee, the house heard Representative Al Kalb, Democrat, of Ottawa county introduce a bill which would repeal the one-cent fuel tax levied for public schools and restore the full four-cent gasoline tax for highways.

Sales Tax Again'

The general school bill, shunted when debate arose over the parochial aid measure follows the recommendation of the joint legislative tax committee for a one per cent sales tax for six months to provide school funds

Three months ago it defeated by a vote of 88 to 37, a two per cent sales tax recommended by Governor White. Opponents of the tax say the new proposal will fail by virtually the same vote.

The bill recommended by the committee carries no exemptions except upon articles such as gasoline, beer and cosmetics which already bear special taxes, fuel sold to manufacturers and utilities and casual sales. It would not apply to service sales.

Foods would bear the one per cent tax along with other articles in the new bill. The first bill exempted all foods.

Estimate on Yield

Tax commission experts estimate that a one per cent tax would yield approximately $9,000,000 during the time it would be in effect from Oct 1, to March 31

Of this amount $8,700,000 would be used to finance state and school districts for the rest of this year and all of next year. The remainder would go to the state tax commission for administrative purposes.

Should the bill meet the same fate in the house as did the first measure the joint taxation committee will proceed to develop some other tax program

Opponents of the measure forced committee action last night

Bill Before Senate

Before the house begins consideration of the sales tax the senate probably will have voted on the school administration bill which establishes a basis for distribution of state aid [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] Senator Will P. Haynes, Democrat of Coshocton said it would yield about $2,100,000 annually with receipts of telephone companies under $50,000 exempt Electric companies wold be allowed [illegible] the three per cent federal tax [illegible] they now pay on certain [illegible] business. SHOE INDUSTRY HITS AT ORGANIZED LABOR

Demands Retention of Merit Clause as Hearings Are Resumed on Code.

Soft coal operators, miners and NRA officials draft new code

Hearings continue on codes for the boot and shoe, motion picture and silk textile industries

YESTERDAY

Hugh S Johnson hailed signs of economic advance in New York City NRA rally.

Johnson announced plans for compliance boards to compel blue eagle observance.

NRA officials, soft coal operators and miners began draft of new code.

National labor board ruled Berkeley Woolen Mills of Martinsburg, W. Va., had violated law by attempted coercion of employes.

Hearings opened on codes for the motion picture, boot and shoe and silk textile industries.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13—The boot and shoe industry struck back against organized labor today as hearings were resumed on a proposed code of competition under the recovery administration with demands for retention of the merit clause and opposition to representation of employes on the central planning board.

The employers also defended the proposed hours and minimum wages in the code and asserted that if that schedule were altered the industry must operate at a loss.

Cleveland A. Newton, representing the American Shoe Manufacturers' association, submitted a brief today asserting that the merit clause was essential to complete the labor picture under the national recovery act. He declared "the act clearly grants the right of collective bargaining to the employe. These protective provisions are expressly set forth in the code. But the picture is not complete without a clear portrayal also of those rights of the employer which are guaranteed by the law and which were not repealed by the recovery act xxxx

"Under the law the employer has even had the right to select, retain and advance his employes for individual merit."

Newton said that without the merit clause, the labor provisions of the code would be misunderstood by thousands of shoe workers in the country Previously he had told newspapermen that union organizers in the West and Southwest were telling employes they must join a union to retain their jobs, and that employers were finding it difficult to refute the organizers' statements.

HUNTERS WAIT FOR OPENING OF SEASON

clerk indicating wide interest in the season's opening.

More than 130 licenses have been sold in the last few days, hardware dealers reported, while large numbers of prospective customers who were turned away because the licenses were not on hand are expected to buy their licenses soon.

County Clerk of Courts Carl Huffman reported his office has sold 176 licenses since Jan 1, most of the sales being in the last few days

In a survey of 29 places issuing hunting licenses in the county outside of Marion, O. H Niemeyer of Prospect deputy game protector, found that up to last night 191 licenses had been sold. These sales exceed those by township clerks, in addition to a number of business firms

Niemeyer warned hunters today that the limit on squirrels is four a day excepting red squirrels on which no limit is set. Niemeyer said however, that red squirrels can be taken now only during the open season, although previously they could be shot at any time

The only game refuge in the county from which hunting is restricted, Niemeyer said, is the Hoch game refuge three and one-half miles west of Marion

The Associated Press today cited changes of the federal department of agriculture which limit the open hunting season for waterfowl, coot and jacksnipes to two months, starting Oct 1 The daily bag limit on ducks was reduced from 15 to 12, not more than eight of which may be canvas backs, redheads, scaups, teals, shovelers or gadwalls. The possession limit for ducks was reduced from 30 to 24 and on the accepted species from 20 to 18

Species of ducks not included in the open season this year are wood ducks, ruddy ducks and buffle-head ducks.

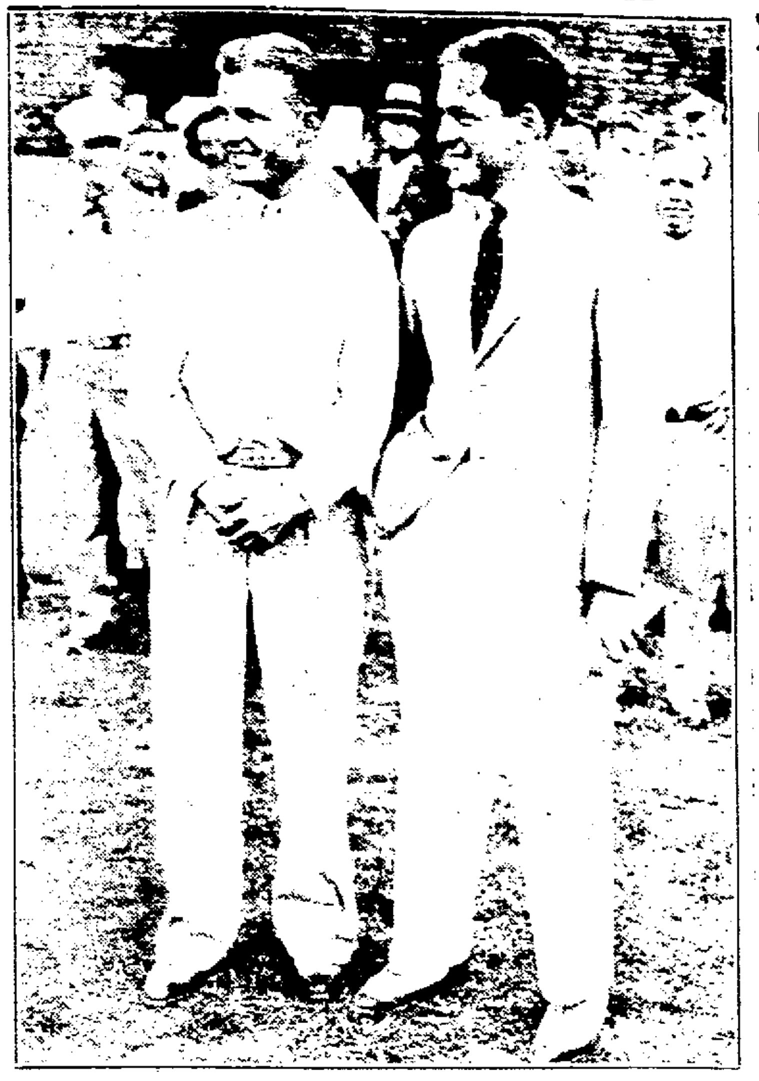
JOHNNY PLAYS -- BOBBY WATCHES



A champion and an ex-champion were mere spectators when this picture was taken at Kenwood country club, Cincinnati, during an early round of the National Amateur golf tournament. Ohio Coaches Seek To Plug Gaps in Teams

By The Associated Press

As dozens of new candidates were added today to the football squads of Ohio colleges, coaches in many schools searched eagerly for new backfield material to fill the gaps left by graduation and withdrawals.

The problem was particularly pressing at Ohio university, where 50 hopefuls reported to Coach Don Peden. Thirteen letter men are missing and eight places must be filled, including an entire new backfield.

At Capital university in Columbus, 23 candidates were on deck, compared with 15 on the first day, but the backfield men are unusually light. Coaches started plans to develop a strong line to plow into the opposition and give the ball-carriers a good start.

At Toledo and Kent State a portion of the coaches' worries were lifted with the arrival of capable field runners.

At Wooster the backfield men devoted much time to handling the ball and punting. Coach L. C. Boles gave his men three plays to run through yesterday the second day of drill.

The first casualty of the season was reported at Ohio Wesleyan where Paul Sell, Delaware sophomore, suffered a leg injury. The Bishops number 54, the largest squad in years. Seventeen are lettermen.

Prospects were bright for Heidelberg, where the best balanced squad in the school's history history started workouts. A dozen veterans answered roll call and three more are expected.

Nine men who won their "O" at Otterbein were among the 26 candidates who answered Coach R. K. Elder's call at Westerville. At Ashland, only 16 men were out, 11 of them experienced players.

DEMPSEY VICTOR: K. O'S WRESTLER

By The Associated Press

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., Sept. 13—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, returned to fistic battle last night and knocked out Leslie Grimes, a light heavyweight wrestler of Australia.

Dempsey, serving as referee in an exhibition between Grimes and Frankie Schroll, Fresno, shoved the Australian aside as the two wrestlers sought to slug it out rather than wrestle.

Grimes, angered, swung at Dempsey. The former champion blocked the wrestler's swing with his left and crossed with his right. Grimes hit the canvas, out cold. Dempsey helped him to his corner and called the match a draw.

17 VETERANS OUT FOR CINCINNATI 12

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 13—Facing the toughest schedule in the school's history, football candidates at the University of Cincinnati are being whipped into shape to meet such goes as the University of Kentucky and the University of South Dakota.

Seventeen letter men are among the 50 seeking berths on the 1933 eleven, but Athletic Director Dana King remarks gloomily that "the squad would have to be composed of 40 lettermen to equal last season's record of seven victories against two defeats."

Besides Kentucky, South Dakota and Marshall the Bearcats will take on all the Buckeye conference teams. The first contest is Sept. 30 with Rio Grande college.

32 SURVIVORS READY TO START FIGHT FOR U.S. AMATEUR TITLE

Record-Breaking Qualifying Round Ends; Champions Face Battles.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Sept. 13—Thirty-two survivors of a record-breaking qualifying test squared away in the gruelling hand-to-hand struggle for the United States amateur golf championship today.

Grouped in the surviving field which scored so furiously Monday and Tuesday that a pair of 75s were necessary to escape elimination in the 36-hole test, were some of the most prominent names in American amateur golf, including C. Ross Somerville, the defending title holder; Johnny Goodman, national open champion, and Johnny Fischer the hometown idol who blazed his way to medalist honors yesterday with a sub-par of 69 for the history-making total of 141.

Records tumbled all over the place when the unprecedented total of 150 became the qualifying limit for match play and left a group of 12 contenders, including three former champions, to fight it out this morning for eight places needed to fill the 32 berths. This in itself was a time record for the number deadlocked for the final positions.

Trailed by a large gallery of home town supporters, Fischer captured the low scoring honors for the second consecutive year. His 141 is the lowest ever marked up in the amateur championship.

In the first round match today Fischer was paired against Eugene Homans of Englewood, N. J. Another first round match promising plenty of fireworks was between Charley Seaver of Los Angeles, Calif., and Charles Yates of Atlanta, Ga.

The three surviving champions who finished on the border-line, 150, requiring a battle for positions, were Chick Evans of Chicago; H. Chandler Egan of Del Monte, Calif., and Max Marston, of Philadelphia, along with them were two Walker cup stars, Maurice McCarthy Jr. of Cleveland and George Dunlap Jr. of New York. The others are R. M. Grant of Hartford, Conn., Chris Brinkle of Philadelphia; Nicol Thompson Jr. of Canada; Eddie Held of Jamesburg, N. J.; Spencer Overton of Baltimore; Will Gunn Jr. of Wallingford, Pa., and Ira Couch of Chicago.

Expect Large Crowd To See Champs Clash

With the prospects pointing to the largest crowd ever to witness a recreation ball game, the Harding Boosters club today completed plans for an intensive ticket campaign for the battle between the Marion and Mansfield Gasco teams.

The game will be played Saturday at 3 p. m. at the Lincoln park field with all the proceeds to go to the Harding High school football equipment fund.

Tickets are being printed today at the high school and will be distributed to leading business places where they may be obtained by fans. Friday morning a pep meeting is being planned at the high school and each student will be given a ticket to buy or sell. The admission charge will be 10 cents.

The ball game, although not originally booked as a benefit for the Harding gridders, will bring together the leading teams of the two cities. Both are city champions. Earlier in the season the two nines met at Mansfield in a night game with the locals losing 3 to 0.

Junior Tennis Champion Will Be Named Today

The junior tennis champion will be chosen today as the Y. M. C. A. court tournaments near the final rounds.

In the junior matches played yesterday, George Howser defeated Jack Markwith 7-5 and 6-1, and Robert Haldeman downed James Woods 6-4 and 6-4. In the semi-finals this morning, Jack Bray will meet Howser and Billy Foster will meet Haldeman. The winners will decide the championship this afternoon.

The men's division of the tourney is rapidly approaching the quarter-final stage. In the senior singles, three matches are slated for this afternoon. Hinklin and Moore clash on the Osgood courts at 4:30 with Penry meeting Long and Wolfinger clashing with Yazel on the Shovel courts at 5. Merkel and Carhart played this morning.

Dreher and Crawford will meet Carhart and Kramer this afternoon at 4 in a doubles match. Carhart and Kramer defeated Cheney and Stair Sunday. It had been previously announced that the latter team won.

Thursday's doubles schedule includes a match between Ochs-Fields and Davis-Morey at 5 p. m.

The woman's division will go into action Thursday at 5 p. m. with Elizabeth Hinklin and Viola Peacock meeting at the Shovel.

Cubs Are Set for "Last Ditch" Pennant Battle

Open Six-Game Series; Only Hope of Overcoming Giants Drive.

By The Associated Press

The Chicago Cubs marched into the National league pennant picture today to start a six-game series with the New York Giants that was labeled even before it started as a "last ditch" affair.

Starting from a second place tie 7½ games behind the Giants, the Cubs were rated as the only team that had any real chance of beating out the leaders.

As a tune-up for the critical series the Cubs hung a neat 2 to 0 trimming on the Phillies yesterday for their fiftieth victory in 66 home games this season. Lonnie Warneke kept the Phils in complete subjection giving up only six hits and never allowing a runner to touch third.

The Pirates whose direct attack on the leaders failed last week, moved back into a second place tie by taking two shutout decisions from the Brooklyn Dodgers. Heinie Meine and Waite Hoyt won a pair of mound duels, 1 to 0 and 2 to 0.

The Boston and St. Louis Nationals had an open date.

The Yankees again clipped a game off Washington's American league lead without frightening the Senators badly. The Yanks downed Detroit 5-3.

Cleveland and Young Monte Pearson got the better of Washington and "General" Al Crowder by a 3 to 1 count. Pearson gave only four hits while Crowder granted five including a homer by Odell Hale.

The Browns continued their efforts to get out of the cellar by trimming the Red Sox for the third straight time 4 to 1.

The White Sox and Athletics were rained out.

MARKET HAS QUIET SESSION

Securities Follow Narrow and Featureless Range in Half-Day of Trading.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 13. Security markets, closing at noon today for the huge New York NRA demon- stration, generally followed a nar- row and featureless range. Except for a few specialties, which were run up for gains of as much as 2 points, most stocks were content to hold just a little better than their levels of yesterday. The finish was firm. Transfers approximated 900,- 000 shares.

While business was rather quiet on the stock exchange, a rally in grains at Chicago served to bolster sentiment and some of the farm issues were given late attention. Wheat got up about 2 cents a bushel. Cotton improved mod- erately. Bonds were slightly mixed. The dollar showed further declining tendencies in foreign exchange dealings.

The agricultural shares recorded their principal gains just before the close, with Case and Sears Roe- buck advancing some 2 points each while International Harvester, Deere and Montgomery Ward came back for about a point. The more active specialties, up around a point, included Great Western Sugar, American Sugar Refining, Motor Meter, Kelvinator and Mathieson Alkali. The alcohols were up fractionally to a point, al- though they were not overly en- thusiastic. Most of the rails did better, with Hudson & Manhattan gaining more than 2 points. Fox Film was in demand for an ad- vance of 1½ and Loew's was up nearly a point. U. S. Steel, Amer- ican Telephone, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, General Motors and other leaders were slightly higher.

Wall Street, despite the brighter economic picture, had a number of worries which probably were part- ly responsible for the hesitation of some of the larger operators in ex- panding their trading commit- ments. Plans of the New York city administration to levy addi- tional taxes on brokers and stock transfers were not received with enthusiasm.

EARLY GAINS MADE IN PIT

U. S. Finances Export of 35,000,000 Bushels of Pacific Wheat.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 13—Quick early upturns took place in grain values today. An outstanding feature was news that export of 30,000,000 to 35,000,000 bushels of Pacific coast wheat would be financed by the United States government. Argen- tine crop advices were unfavorable. Opening ¾@1½ up, wheat after- ward rose further. Corn started at ⅛ decline to ⅜ advance and sub- sequently gained all around.

Bulls put special emphasis on announcement that surplus Pa- cific coast wheat would find a for- eign outlet, the fact being stressed that this wheat was shipped of late to Kansas and Texas as well as to the Atlantic seaboard through the Panama canal. The plan to send the surplus overseas, it was as- serted, would remove what threat- ened to be a material deterrent to price advances, especially in the southwest where wheat has been taken out of store at prices above a Chicago parity. Notice was also taken of authoritative statements that Australia would have much less wheat than last year and that crop prospects in Argentina were poor.

More than two cents a bushel up- turn for wheat in Chicago was soon witnessed. Australian advices said that if September rains failed, the Australian wheat crop this season would not be more than 100,000,000 bushels, and in any event would prove 50,000,000 to 60,- 000,000 under last year. Pit ob- servers said the wheat trade gave evidences of a sold out market con- dition, and that there was concen- trated buying of May contracts.

Hog price upturns steadied the provision market.

Wheat closed strong, at the day's topmost level, 4½@4¾ above yes- terday's finish, corn 2⅛@2¾ up, oats 1⅜@1½ advanced, and pro- visions showing a rise of 5 to 15 cents.

BIDDERS SEEK MORE MONEY FOR U. S. JOBS

Delay Threatens Two Ohio Buildings as NRA Boosts Costs.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13—Two Ohio building projects postoffice extension and repair work at Chillicothe and Lancaster — are among a number of such public works proposals that treasury officials predict may have to go back on the market because bidders want more money to carry them out under NRA requirements governing wages and working hours.

Low bidders on 22 buildings or extensions have been asked whether they would proceed without additional money. One said he would. Some of the others have balked. the treasury is pressing for answers from all.

Department officials said if contractors refuse to go forward with the contracts at prices named in their original bids, it would be necessary either to readvertise the entire project or ask for supplemental bids. The latter method was suggested as the most likely, because it requires less time. Bids must be advertised 30 days but supplemental bids can be called for on 10 days notice.

The principal reason for contractors asking more money, treasury officials said, were the wage minimum and 30-hour work week requirements for public buildings in the recovery act. The act also specifies that a maximum of hand labor be used and treasury officials said contractors are pointing to increasing costs of materials which in some cases have gone up 25 per cent.

One of Greatest Peace-Time Parades in History Witnessed on Fifth Avenue.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13—The blue eagle marshalled one of the world's greatest peace-time parades today.

He summoned a [illegible] people in industry [illegible] Fifth avenue in the [illegible] "NRA day" demonstration.

Moving, as NRA Chief Grover A. Whalen described it, "from the darkness of depression [illegible] sunlight of prosperity," the gigantic cavalcade was set to start at 12:30 p. m., and march up the historic avenue until hours after sundown.

Capital and labor took positions side by side in the ranks under the NRA banner. Throngs, granted [illegible] holiday, flocked to the scene to watch it. Some advance estimates said the spectators would number 3,000,000.

Saying the nation had been lifted about "one quarter of the way out of its March depths," he delivered a warning against letting up in the recovery drive.
